OPINIONS EXPRESSED BY THE INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS.
Hon. Stephen H. Rhodes, Commissioner for Massachusetts, says: "The United States Life is SOUND to the CORE and in a very creditable and flourishing condition. No life company in this country has ever been subjected to a more thorough and severe scrutiny. Its books, accounts, and collaterals, its policy liabilities and agency accounts, were gone into with a minute detail which left no room for the slightest concealment or misapprehension. Its mortgages were actually appraised, and, notwithstanding the decline in the value of real estate, were found to afford the most abundant security, giving evidence of remarkable discernment and soundness of judgment in selection from this class of securities. As the company is perfectly sound, and can afford to challenge criticism, the effect of the very thorough examination we have made will only be to increase its popularity and confirm the confidence now reposed in its management. The movement will only serve to advertise the company and draw public attention to its solid condition."

Hon. John W. Stedman, Commissioner for Connecticut, says: "It is sound, because it is, and has been, managed by able and honest men. A glance through the list of its investments will convince any intelligent man that they could hardly be better. They all, with one exception, stand above par. The examination was very stringent and exacting, and I am perfectly satisfied with the company's showing."

Hon. Wm. Smyth, Insurance Superintendent of New York, states: "The people may rely upon my report as a faithful and complete statement of the truth. A fortnight was spent in the examination, but the facilities afforded by the excellent system of the company enabled the examiners to prosecute their labors with rapidity. Everything was at hand, and nothing omitted or slighted. The commissioners went into the most minute details, and every particular was verified. The assets were rather under than overestimated. Their investments are in the most compact form, and unexceptionably good. All their mortgages were appraised, and it was agreeably surprised to find that these securities had suffered no depreciation in value. A masterly judgment seems to have presided over these investments. I feel that I have reason to congratulate the life insurance interest on the strictness of the investigation, because it has demonstrated the integrity and solid strength of this sterling old life corporation."
